THE CONVENTION LAST NIGHT.

THE MEETING DOES ITS WORK IN A HURRY.

Mr. Wright Makes Witty Speech—All Defeated Candidates in Good Humor—Glascock Ratified—Mr. Scales Motion.

The Convention which met in the court house last night to hear the reports from the Executive Committee of the primaries held last Tuesday night, was called to order a few minutes after eight o'clock by Mr. John N. Wilson. The reports from the Executive Committee were then called for, but before they were given Mr. B. B. Bouldin arose and wanted to know if he would be allowed to participate in the Convention in view of the fact that he refused to vote for any man who had voted for McKinley. The chairman refused to make any ruling in regard to the matter, but left it before the Convention. No motion was made regarding the matter, and consequently no action taken.

Mr. H. W. Wharton read the report of the Executive Committee showing that 393 votes were cast for mayor at the primaries and that Col. W. H. Osborn had received a majority and he was declared the Democratic nominee for mayor. Mr. A. M. Scales moved that the nomination be ratified. Motion unanimously carried.

In response to calls, Col. Osborn made a short speech thanking his friends who supported him, and pledging himself to discharge the obligations of the office to the best of his ability.

Mr. J. H. Phipps reported that the Sixth ward renominated Mr. G. T. Glascock for alderman from that ward, and their action was ratified, only two votes in opposition being cast.

Mr. John L. King occupied the floor a few minutes thanking his friends for their support and congratulating the city on its selection for mayor, saying that Col. Osborn would make as good a mayor as the city had ever had.

Mr. J. W. Forbis followed in a short speech thanking his constituency for their support and congratulating Col. Osborn on his nomination.

Calls were then made in succession for Mr. Wright, Mr. Glascock and Mr. Phipps. Mr. Wright, after being repeatedly called, came forward, saying that he was not in the building, when his name had first been called.

He shook hands with the defeated candidates and with Col. Osborn, expressing his sympathy for the former and offering congratulations to the latter. This, he said, "looks like the case in which the Wright man got left." This sally was greeted by a burst of laughter. An incident which occurred in the forenoon, he said, he would repeat for the benefit of Col. Osborn, showing that no sweet was without its bitter. He had been approached by a darkey who said, "Mr. Wright, I hears youze runnin' for may, or, an' Ize agwine to support you. Has you got any change I could git a dram with?"

After talking for several minutes in lighter vein he called the attention of those present to the fact that an election on the question of good roads would be held in November and urging that the matter receive their serious attention.

Mr. Scales moved that in view of the fact that the present method of holding the primaries had been criticised, that the Executive Committee be empowered to map out and adopt some plan of procedure before the next election. Motion unanimously carried.

Moved and carried that the Convention adjourn.

Greensboro Man Leads

Mr. G. H. Royster yesterday received a letter from the president of the Board of Control of the Endowment Rank Knights of Pythias, stating that he lead all the organizers in the United States in point of sending in more applications for insurance in the Endowment Rank during the past month.

LIBRARY FUND GROWING

Nineteen Hundred Dollars Already Subscribed—Book Clubs Contribution.

The committee on the Public Library met yesterday afternoon in the court house.

Superintendent Grimsley for the soliciting committee reported $1,900 subscribed, and this with only such effort as the committee could make in a canvass of a few afternoons. The Board of Aldermen have given the whole front of the third story for the use of the library which gives it an excellent home.

It was announced that the Wednesday afternoon and the Friday afternoon Books Clubs had each subscribed $100 to the fund.

Messrs. Scales and Thompson, appointed for the purpose, reported the following resolution which was adopted unanimously.

Resolved, That the thanks of the library committee be and are hereby tendered to the Board of Aldermen for their liberality in granting such elegant quarters to the library; and that the liberal and generous subscriptions of the Friday afternoon and Wednesday afternoon books clubs are highly appreciated and commended to similar organizations in the city; and further, that the thanks of the committee be extended to every one who has aided or encouraged in any way.

McLAURIN AS BRYAN SEES HIM

THE NEBRASKAN TAKES THE SENATOR TO TASK.

Declares a New Era is Dawning in the South—McLaurin Will Not Lead the Movement but Another Leader Will Arise.

Lincoln, Neb., May 2.—In a statement made today, W. J. Bryan takes Senator McLaurin, of South Carolina, to task for what he declares is his political flop. At the same time, Mr. Bryan admits that Senator McLaurin's action marks the beginning of a movement in the South which will have an influence upon the politics of the nation. He says:

It is not likely that Mr. McLaurin will be the leader of the movement, because he is handicapped by the fact that he is using his official position to misrepresent the views and interests of his constituents but some leader will arise to give direction and force to the aristocracy and plutocracy element for which Mr. McLaurin speaks. There is such an element in every community and now that the race question no longer unifies the white people of the southern states it will doubtless manifest itself. Senator Tillman has already taken up the gage of battle thrown down by Senator McLaurin and will doubtless be able to marshal a considerable majority in that state, but the same influences are at work in other states where there is greater danger of their success.

"The Democratic sentiment is strong enough to resist and overcome the McLaurin movement, but those who believe that the man is more important than the dollar will have to bestir themselves."

Cupid's Victims.

Mr. F. S. Lowe, a school teacher living near Wilkesboro and Miss Ray, of Roger's Store, were married yesterday morning at the home of the bride. They spent last night at the Allen House and left this morning for their future home in Wilkes.

Strike in New York.

By Wire to The Telegram.
New York, May 3.—A strike on the Brooklyn Rapid Transit railroad is imminent. A committee of skilled employees called today on President Greatsinger, and presented an ultimatum that unless three discharged employees were reinstated and a higher wage scale was adopted a strike would be declared. President Greatsinger refuses to yield.

THE GOVERNOR IN MOUNT AIRY.

THE OCCASION A GALA DAY.

MET AT THE STATION BY A BRASS BAND AND THE MILITARY.

Over a Thousand People in the Procession Formed to Welcome Him—Young Ladies in a Float Proposed and Rode Three Cheers for Gov. Aycock. His Educational address a Good One.

Governor Aycock spent a short while in the city yesterday afternoon on his way to Mt. Airy where he delivered an educational address last night in the opera house. He returned from Mt. Airy on the noon train today, and left this afternoon for Henderson and Oxford where he will speak tomorrow.

When seen by a Telegram reporter Governor Aycock said that they had a fine time last night at Mt. Airy, but a poor speech, that he was a judge of a good speech, and they had a poor one there.

Not less than a thousand people gathered to hear the Chief Executive of North Carolina speak on the subject that lies near to his heart, the education of the people of the Old North State. When he arrived at the station he was met by a procession of over a thousand people, including which were a brass band, the military company of Mt. Airy and numbers of young ladies dressed in white, and riding in float.

The presence of the Governor was greeted with cheers and he was escorted to the hotel, accompanied by enlivening strains from the band. At the hotel the young ladies sang "The Old North State," and the military company then proposed three cheers for the Governor and they were given with a will. In response Mr. Aycock proposed three cheers for the young ladies and as the Governor himself could not give them, the young men present gave them for him. The young ladies not to be outdone, immediately proposed and raised three cheers for Mr. Aycock.

The Governor's speech was, notwithstanding his statement of its quality, a good one, and made a deep impression upon the large audience who heard him. The point most particularly stressed was the necessity, growing out of the Constitutional Amendment, for the white children of North Carolina to be educated, and he showed the advantages and successes that lay within their grasp if educated, and their corresponding failures if uneducated.

Yesterday was a gala day in Mt. Airy and the event of the Governor's visit to their town will be long remembered by the citizens.

JAIL-BREAKER RETURNS.

Says that the Woods are Full of Wires.

(Deferred from Thursday.)

Robert Foard, one of the negro prisoners who escaped from the county jail Monday morning, returned this morning and gave himself up. Foard is the United States' prisoner and is sentenced to eighteen months in the penitentiary at Nashville, Tenn. His return to the jail was made about three o'clock this morning and the story he told is that he walked through the country to Winston and that the police there got after him and he had to leave. He said that there were "wires" all through the woods and he knew he could not escape from them, and so he concluded to return. The others who escaped have not yet been heard from, but it is only a matter of time when they will be caught.

Mr. G. Sam Bradshaw returned this afternoon from a business trip to Cincinnati.

Dr. L. M. Humphrey, of Goldsboro, is in the city today visiting friends.

THE MISSIONARY CONFERENCE.

LARGEST CONVENTION EVER HELD IN THE SOUTH.

Its Influence for Good, Wide and Far Reaching—Some of Those Present—A Spirit of Giving in Evidence.

Dr. and Mrs. L. W. Crawford, Mrs. Lucy Cunningham and Mrs. Lucy Robertson returned yesterday afternoon from New Orleans where they attended the Missionary Conference recently held there. Dr. Crawford was seen this morning by a Telegram reporter and upon being questioned, spoke of the meeting and of the interest manifested by those in attendance.

There were nine hundred delegates, from all parts of the Southern church present, and thirty-two missionaries from different parts of the world. Among the countries represented by the missionaries were Japan, China, India, Brazil, Cuba, South America, and Korea. The sessions of the Conference were held in Tulane Hall in New Orleans. This hall has a seating capacity two thousand people. In addition to the delegates there were one thousand and people from a distance in attendance upon the Conference. The Conference met on the 24th and continued throughout the night service on the 30th, three sessions being held each day.

Among the distinguished missionaries who were present were Bishop Thoburn, who has been in India for 40 years; Dr. Young J. Allen, for 40 years a missionary in China; Dr. Reid, of Korea; Dr. Taboux, of Brazil; and Dr. and Mrs. Taylor, of China.

On Sunday night at the close of a sermon by Bishop Charles B. Galloway, a gentleman in the audience rose from his seat and offered a subscription of $1,500 to build a college in Soo-Chow China. This was followed by another gentleman who offered a subscription of $1,000 for the same purpose. No collection for this purpose had been asked for, but it was done voluntarily on the part of both gentlemen and the statement was then made that if other persons wanted to giving anything for that purpose, they could do so at that time, and the giving continued for one hour and a half, and at the close of that time the total amount of the contributions amounted to over $50,000.

On Tuesday night before the adjournment, a similar spontaneous spirit of giving broke forth, and $3,000 was subscribed for the Laura Haygood Woman's College in Soo-Chow.

This Conference is said to be the largest convention ever held in the South, and possibly the most wide-reaching in its influence for good.

To make Educational Addresses

Prof. P. P. Claxton left this morning for Kinston, where tomorrow he will deliver an address in favor of that city's raising $20,000 of bonds for school houses. Tomorrow night he will deliver an address at the Joseph K. Brick Agricultural School at Enfield. Mrs. Claxton also left this morning for Tarboro to visit relatives.

The Recital Last Night.

The graduating recital at the Greensboro Female College of Misses Leonora Irene Balsley, Willie Adelaide Click, and Elma Courtney was attended by a large number of the music loving people of the city. The problem was well arranged and the rendition by the young ladies reflected credit upon themselves; their teacher and the institution. Each of the young ladies sang a solo. Miss Courtney's voice has been heard in Greensboro on previous occasions, and her selection last night was much appreciated, as was testified by the repeated bursts of applause.

The graduating recitals at the college each year are an event in the college life, and are always enjoyed and appreciated by the music loving people of the city.

President George T. Winston, of the A. & M. College, Raleigh, was in the city this afternoon.

SABBATH WORK INCREASING.

DR. THOMPSON'S ABLE ADDRESS LAST NIGHT.

"Our American Sabbath" Discussed Before a Good Congregation at the First Presbyterian Church. (Deferred from Thursday.)

A fairly good crowd of people filled the auditorium of the First Presbyterian church last night to hear the address of Dr. Edward Thompson, of Atlanta, general manager of the Sabbath League of America. His talk was practical and was well received by those present. His special topic was "Our American Sunday," and he began his address by stating that the first order issued by General Washington as commander in chief of the American army was known as general order No. 1, directing that all the forces under his command desist from all work on the Sabbath not an absolute necessity. And to this order Washington added that they could not expect God's blessings to rest upon their efforts and enterprises unless they did observe the Sabbath day to keep it holy.

"Also General Robert E. Lee issued commands of a similar nature, ordering that all work on the Sabbath should be reduced to a minimum." "This principle," said the speaker, "is truly American."

"The framers of the Constitution of the United States recognized the necessity of this same strict observance of the Sabbath when they incorporated into that Constitution the article which sets forth that the President shall have ten days, Sundays excepted, in which to consider bills. The duties of the first President were not exacting, but the giant intellects that framed the constitution foresaw that the thirteen puny states would grow and expand until they became a mighty nation and so they wisely made this provision in order that the Chief Executive might enjoy the Sabbath.

"Now the fundamental principle of the United States is equality of rights, and if the President is granted Sunday, everybody else should have it also.

"Congress meets only when called by the President, or when the time set apart for its annual assembling arrives. This time is set by the Constitution as the first Monday in December, and so Congress cannot meet on a Sunday. This is also the case with the courts, they cannot meet nor continue on Sunday. This is Anglo-Saxon, but with the French it is entirely different. There every court, from the highest tribunal to the lowest police court, continue without regard for the Sabbath.

Some statistics were here introduced by the speaker showing that in ten years the population of the United States has increased 26 per cent., and that there were now three million Sunday toilers in his country, an average of one in six families. He also spoke of the Sunday ball games, dances, and other evils so prevalent in many of our larger cities.

In answer to the theory that Sunday labor was necessary, he advanced the ideas of some of the world's great thinkers, showing that all the work done in seven days could be done in six just as well. Mr. W. W. Peabody, general manager of one of the largest railway systems in the middle states, has stated that all the work done on his system in seven days could be done in six.

The action of several of the more prominent men of the country was brought before the congregation in their attitude to Sunday travel on the trains. Among the incidents mentioned were one concerning President McKinley, Grover Cleveland, Theodore Roosevelt, and others.

The question of the Sunday mails was also brought out by Dr. Thompson, and in refutation of the argument of business men that they had to open their mails on Sunday in order to keep up with their business, cited the stores belonging to John Wanamaker, which do a larger business than any other stores belonging to any one man on the Atlantic coast, and yet not a single piece of their mail is opened on Sunday. The same thing was said of Marshall Fields in Chicago, in whose store 2,200 clerks find employment, but in which no mail is opened on Sunday.

WINE OF CARDUI

Woman's Crowning Virtue.

BRITON, Mo., July 27.

For years I suffered terrible pains every month and my doctor told me I could not be cured except by an operation. I felt I could not submit to that and was despondent I had given up all hopes of a cure. My husband insisted on my trying Wine of Cardui and at last thank God I did try it. Last month I did not have a pain, and did all my work, which I had not done in seven years.

MRS. MINNIE LITTLE.

WINE OF CARDUI

Modesty is the crowning virtue of American women. It is the trait that all mankind admires. A modest woman is the most pleasing of all created things. Because of this becoming virtue thousands of women prefer to suffer untold miseries rather than confide their troubles to a physician, and to even think of submitting to an examination is revolting. They can't get their own consent to an operation. Wine of Cardui permits sensitive women to retain their modesty. With it they can cure "female troubles" in the quiet of their own rooms. If special treatment is required they can write to the Advisory Department of the Chattanooga Medicine Co., and their letters will be promptly answered by women trained in the cure of womanly weaknesses and irregularities. There should be no hesitation. Delayed treatment means a chronic condition. The longer postponed the harder to cure.

MY LADY'S CHOICE

By Lella Roome Harris.

YOU beautiful patrician face! How handsome and still how haughty, those large, dark eyes can smile until a man loses his reason, or stare with a cold, disinterested glance that makes a woman murmur: "What do the men see in that vain, cynical woman?"

You are looking into me as I speak (I am only your mirror, my lady), and I have seen many faces, but I wonder if there ever was a more changeable one than yours. Oh, yes! You and I are alone, my dear girl, or I would hardly avail myself of this opportunity to analyze you quite so truthfully.

I, too, have often wondered what makes you so popular. Perhaps we can find out the secret to-night. We have quite a half hour before it is time to go to the charity ball. (What a pity the remarks that will be made there about the women's gowns will not be more charitable!)

But even the most exacting can hardly find fault with you to-night, my beauty, the bride of the season, in your Paris wedding gown!

Little attention, I am thinking, the bridegroom (a millionaire of 60-odd winters) will receive as you enter the room.

You stand before me, your long pier-glass, and I look you over carefully, from diamond tiara to dainty satin slipper (so ridiculously small!)

Will they be there to-night—the old friends? What good times you have had with them, to be sure; but those pleasant days are to be all in the past now; you have a husband to please, a very jealous, exacting one. But then, my dear, remember he is a millionaire! One cannot have everything in this world. The old friends were all very well to dance and flirt with, to pass away the time, but they were out of the question when it came to marriage.

One needs a carriage, an establishment and important gowns to be popular when they are married; then they can have the reputation of "giving the best dinners of anyone in our set," and of being "such a charming hostess."

You will meet them to-night for the first time since they waved good-by to you from the shore as you leaned over the steamer's rail, and one of the ushers (you might have known it was Jim) had the audacity to throw a paper bag full of rice, which broke as it fell on the deck at your feet, and everyone turned to look with an amused smile at the blushing bride and the dignified, gray-haired groom. Yes, you will see them all again to-night, but you need not look so pleased. You will be "Mrs. Stocton Gouvenier." No one (not even Jim (and you know he would dare a good deal in the old days), will call you "Miss Phyllis" to-night.

Do you remember the night of Mme. Dyre's ball?

You stood by Jim in the crush of the supper-room, trying to eat an ice—how he whispered: "Do you know why you remind me of the first game I ever shot? Because you are such a—dear!"

It was a very poor pun, but you laughed and dimpled, glancing up at him through your long, dark lashes, for you knew only too well you had added another heart to your already outrageously long number of devoted slaves, and you even smiled when you heard Miss Primly say, quite audibly (as you passed out of the room): "Outrageous flirt! Mr. North, how can you admire her?"

You will meet Jim to-night, and he will mutter: "Delighted to see you, Mrs. Gouvenier," and will cross to the opposite side of the room, where he will look at you longingly and bite his mustache savagely, thinking how selfish your husband is to forbid you to dance, because he is too old to find any pleasure in it himself.

They will all be there, the old friends. (It seems much longer than two months since you went abroad; have you missed them?)

Did I say "all"? No, not all, for I remember a pale face, with such earnest gray eyes.

He found more important things in life than pleasures and dances. There were so many poor to help, so many ill, so much suffering and unhappiness. He took life "too seriously," Jim had said. I do not see why your mouth should droop so at the corners. Don't do it, Phyllis, it spoils Cupid's bow. Is there still a pain in your heart when you think of that poor boy? Well, don't do it, then; forget him; there are so many you should be sorry for, and it is rather late to begin now.

There is a step on the stairs; how quickly your face changes as you recognize your husband's step. All the life has died out of it and it has grown cold and expressionless. You rise to meet him as he comes toward you.

My dear Phyllis, be careful! It would never do for him to see your face as it is now, such a look of longing has come into it as the thought, "it might have been so different if—" goes beating through your brain. But with a master stroke of self-restraint, you force a smile and lower the eyes that are filling with tears so fast you dare not trust them, and say with a half laugh and a voice that is perhaps a trifle unsteady: "Don't I look lovely? Is it time to go, dear?"

Just then you are interrupted by the sharp noise of a door being shut violently. Everything grows dim and confused. Your husband seems to grow dimmer and dimmer until he fades away into the darkness; you rub your eyes and look with astonishment at me. I also have changed, from a stately pier glass to a little oval mirror hanging over your desk. You look into me with eyes that can hardly believe the vision of yourself that I reflect, for instead of your Paris wedding gown you have on a dainty matinee jacket and your hair falls in pretty confusion over your shoulders. You stretch out your hand to a letter that lies before you on your desk and with a glance of wonder you read in your own penmanship these words:

"Washington, D. C., Jan. 15, 1900.—Dear Maj. Gouvenier: I have seriously considered the question you asked me last evening, and I feel much honored that you should wish me to become your wife. If I can add to your happiness by giving you the answer you so much desired—"

What is the matter?

Why should you crush the letter in your hand and then tear it up and throw it into the waste paper basket?

The confused look has left your face; you are beginning to realize that after writing that letter this morning you leaned back in that comfortable chair and thought of the great happiness that was in the future for you.

You imagined yourself as a wealthy woman, thinking of the many delightful things the "major's" money could do for you.

Gradually you grew drowsy, you leaned your head against the back of your chair, your eyes closed—the dream that followed did not picture the future at all as you had imagined it would be; you realized too late (it seemed too late in your dream) that money alone could not bring you happiness, and that it was not so easy as you had hoped it would be to forget a certain pair of gray eyes. I confess that all through that dream I did all I could to make you see the mistake you would make if you did so in reality.

What are you doing, Phyllis?

Surely, you are not so childish as to write to that poor, discouraged missionary on the western prairies? And you really intend to give him the answer he has longed for for the past three months?

Well, you are a queer girl to let a mere dream influence you so. What will society say?

The beautiful, proud Miss Phyllis Varian to be married to a missionary, to give up the gay life she has found so pleasant, to live in a wretched little log hut in the place of a church!

But you seem determined, and a smile hovers over your beautiful red lips as you seal your letter, and I cannot help but wonder if you were ever really as happy as you are now.

And you will go to the charity ball to-night, but not as "Mrs. Stocton Gouvenier," and you will tell Jim about the letter you wrote this morning and the love light will shine in those large, dark eyes as you add: "Yes, Jim, I have sent him his answer, and he is to teach me to take life 'seriously,' too."—Troy Times.

MISCELLANEOUS ITEMS.

For the two years ended June 30 last there were 16,627 criminal trials in North Carolina, and 10,845 convictions. The total was 2,000 less than in the preceding two years.

There are 12,000 sweatshops in New York city in which clothing is made. The average worker in one of these shops earns from $1.50 to $3 per week and works 100 hours per week in the busy season.

The Paris National library, which has to-day over 2,000,000 volumes, was opened in 1645 with 1,300 volumes. It includes to-day, among other things, about 280,000 volumes relating to French history and 611,000 volumes relating to the history of other countries.

While boring for a well near Lake, Mich., on the farm of Frank Fowler, the workmen struck a stratum of sand at a depth of 110 feet. In a few moments the well began to spout sand, which rose in a cloud several feet above the nozzle, like a fountain, and was scattered by the wind.

An ostrich farm is to be established in the suburbs of Little Rock, Ark. Thomas A. Cockburn, of San Antonio, Tex., has purchased a tract of land and will take his entire supply of birds there at once. His farm is a branch of one of the celebrated California farms. Mr. Cockburn will go to Hot Springs because the climate, he says, is better suited for his business.

About a year ago a 70-pound Mississippi river catfish was taken to the New York aquarium. For about six months it was an exceedingly inexpensive boarder, eating hardly anything. Now, however, it is feeding regularly, taking every other day a single meal of a pound to a pound and a half of eels and herring. The bottom of the big cat's tank is covered with white sand, in which it loves to rub itself.

Young Lyle French, of Island Pond, N. H., recently had a remarkable adventure. He was fishing near the Webster mill, so called, and unexpectedly found himself in the presence of a young buck and a couple of does. On the impulse of the moment, Lyle rushed in among them and got astride the buck, while the frightened does at once made themselves scarce. The buck and the boy struggled keenly for the mastery, but the boy was unhorsed and the buck made his escape.

Halting Service.

In the "Reminiscences" of Miss M. Betham Edwards is the retort of a boy hired to do the dirtier work about the kitchen. Evidently he was not destined to rise. At least, he had no idea of making his to his religion. One day the farmer's wife, seeing him dawdling over his work, took up a knife and showed him how to clean it well and quickly. "Ah, but, ma'am," said he, "you do it so because they're your own!"—Youth's Companion.

BRAVE MEN FALL.

Victims to stomach, liver and kidney troubles as well as women, and all feel the results in loss of appetite, poisons in the blood, backache, nervousness, headache and tired, listless, run down feeling. But there's no need to feel like that. Listen to J. W. Gardner, Idaville, Ind. He says: "Electric Bitters are just the thing for a man when he is all run down, and don't care whether he lives or dies. It did more to give me strength and good appetite than anything I could take. I can now eat anything and have a new lease on life." Only 50 cents at C. E. Holton's drug store. Every bottle guaranteed.

CAUGHT A DREADFUL COLD.

Marion Kooke, manager for T. M. Thompson, a large importer of fine millinery at 1658 Milwaukee Avenue, Chicago, says: "During the late severe weather I caught a dreadful cold which kept me awake at night and made me unfit to attend my work during the day. One of my milliners was taking Chamberlain's Cough Remedy for a severe cold at that time, which seemed to relieve her so quickly that I bought some for myself. It acted like magic and I began to improve at once. I am now entirely well and feel very pleased."

A TESTIMONIAL FROM OLD ENGLAND.

"I consider Chamberlain's Cough Remedy the best in the world for bronchitis," says Mrs. William Savory, of Warrington, England. "It has saved my wife's life, she having been a martyr to bronchitis for over six years, being most of the time confined to her bed. She is now quite well." Sold by C. E. Holton, Druggist.

MILLIONS GIVEN AWAY

It is certainly gratifying to the public to know of one concern in the land who not afraid to be generous to needy and suffering. The proprietors of Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption Coughs and Colds, have given away over ten millions trial bottles of this great medicine; and have the satisfaction of knowing it has absolutely cured thousands of hopeless cases. THE BEST REMEDY FOR RHEUMATISM. QUICK RELIEF FROM PAIN.

All who use Chamberlain's Pain Balm for rheumatism are delighted with the quick relief from pain which it affords. When speaking of this Mr. D. N. Sinks, of Troy, Ohio, says: "Some time ago I had a severe attack of rheumatism in my arm and shoulder. I tried numerous remedies but got no relief until I was recommended by Messrs. Geo. F. Parson & Co., druggists of this place, to try Chamberlain's Pain Balm. They recommend it so highly that I thought I would try it. I bought a bottle. I was soon relieved of all pain. I have since recommended this liniment to many of my friends, who agree with me that it is the best remedy for muscular rheumatism in the market." or sale by C. E. Holton, Druggist.

FRIDAY, MAY 3.

JOHN D. AND THE SAINTS REST.

We are interested in young Mr. Rockefeller—John D., who visited Greensboro some days ago, and those who, like us, are interested in the young man, may be glad that he is the teacher of a Sunday school class, and has week-night meetings with his class. Such a meeting he had on Tuesday night of this week, and, while it was going on, who should come in but John D., Sr., and Lieutenant Governor Timothy Woodruff, each of whom made talks to the class. John D., Sr., told the boys how glad he was to be there and to exchange views with them.

"When my son first undertook this work," he said, "I tried to dissuade him. But he told me he was getting more out of it than you were, and now I am ready to believe it. I heartily approve of these class meetings. They mean something. They are constant reminder of our duties to each other."

"We used to have a bible class out West, thirty of forty years ago, which, because of the inactivity of its members, came to be called the 'Saints' Rest.' The good women were always talking of what they were going to do, but never did anything. They possessed the receptive faculty, but lacked the ability or desire to give to others the benefit of that which they received."

"Many a man with little information and with the faculty of disseminating that information is a better teacher than he who is constantly adding to his stock of knowledge but gives nothing of it to his fellowman."

"Money is not all. We do not necessarily have to give money to fulfill our mission in life. Character building is glorious occupation, and no man should be 'too busy' to assist in this work, which costs nothing. At the same time, money is an incidental consideration in attacking this problem, and the man who possesses the tact and ability to persuade others to contribute money to the cause is doing a good work."

"Personally, nothing pleased me better in the earlier years of my life, when actively engaged in church work, than to make a man give money who liked to hold fast to it and hug it to his bosom."

"The gift of honest labor is better than money, and, if you will pardon the personal allusion, I would like to speak of my own experience. In the thirty or forty years of my business life the company with which I have been associated has paid out in wages from $60,000 to $70,000 a day, or at the rate of $20,000,000 a year. And between $60,000 and $70,000 have been paid for honest labor. That I consider is the best kind of giving."

Some folks will be accusing brother Rockefeller of having let his pleasure of squeezing the stingy old duck stick to him, but we don't believe it. But the interesting thing about Brother Rockefeller's remarks is that since a young man he has been active in work, and very actively and liberally, no doubt, as we infer from his reference to the "Saints' Rest." He has not taken up his church work in late life as a fad after he had made his pile. And who shall say that the rain which falls upon the just and the unjust alike, and makes their crops grow alike, did not, as it pattered down upon the head of Brother Rockefeller, fall upon the just? We shall not.

Held up by De Witt on one side and J. Pierpont Morgan on the other, Great Britain is indeed in sore distress.

Our sanctum on yesterday was graced by the presence of Mr. J. H. King the Durham Herald. It is always a pleasure and an inspiration to have him drop in when around this way. Then too, he has a fellow feeling and knows how to sympathize (in true printer's style) when the engine won't work. He has been there, and came near losing his religion.

Dr. Parkhurst evidently needs to be better informed upon matters pertaining to the South, and should subscribe to a few of her leading daily newspapers. The Telegram will be pleased to add his name to its increasing list of new subscribers.

The tow line of The Telegram was never in better condition than at present, and is at the service of Greensboro and her citizens, when needed to pull through any worthy enterprise.

The ways of a gas engine are devilous and past finding out, hence no Telegram yesterday.

If people only knew what we know about Kodol Dyspepsia Cure, it would be used in nearly every household, as there are few people who do not suffer from a feeling of fullness after eating, belching, flatulence, sour stomach or waterbrash, caused by indigestion or dyspepsia. A preparation such as Kodol Dyspepsia Cure, which, with no aid from the stomach, will digest your food, certainly can't help but do you good.

NAME FOR KODOL.

The only instance on record when a postoffice has been named after a patent medicine, was last year, when in Wetzel county, W. Va., a new postoffice was established and named Kodol, after the famous Kodol Dyspepsia Cure, manufactured by E. C. DeWitt & Co., of Chicago. It had given such satisfactory results that the name was unanimously selected by the people for the new office and adopted by the department at Washington, D. C.

DIED LAST NIGHT.The Fireman Injured Yesterday Passes Away During the Night
(Deferred from Thursday.)

Mr. Carl Kirkman, the fireman who was injured on the railway yards yesterday afternoon, died at his home last night about nine o'clock. He was unconscious from the time of the accident until after seven o'clock.

Opiates were administered to him yesterday afternoon immediately upon the arrival of a physician, and his pain was to some extent alleviated, but he suffered agonies before death relieved him.

Everything preparatory to the amputation of his leg was made but he never rallied sufficiently for the operation to be performed. His right foot was mashed completely off, and the leg up to the knee mangled terribly.

The manner in which the accident occurred, according to the best information obtainable, is as follows: The engineer of the switch engine had gone to dinner, and, as is the custom when an engine is left with no one to attend to it, it was attached to a car, and the brakes set on the car to keep it from moving. While there the fireman thought he would clean out the ash pan, and while under the engine another engine shifted some cars against the car attached to the switch engine, knocking it about fifteen feet. The tender of the engine ran over the unfortunate man, mashing his foot and leg, and when the rear truck passed over him the brake gearing caught him in such a manner as to drag him as long as the engine was in motion, mangle and injure him internally, from the effects of which he died.

The wounded man lay under the engine fifteen minutes before he could be released, and during that time his sufferings were intense. Before he could be taken out the brake gearing under the tender had to be knocked off. The accident is said to be the result of carelessness as the rules positively prohibit cars being run into an engine standing alone on the track.

Mr. Kirkman leaves a wife and one child. He had been in the employ of the Southern about two years, and previous to that time had lived in High Point, working in a furniture factory there.

The funeral services were conducted this afternoon at 2 o'clock and the remains were interred in the cemetery at Peasant Garden.

FLOWERS OF THE FIELD.They Come Generously and Their Service is Patient and Persistent.

Central Presbyterian, Richmond.

The common flowers of the field and wayside are not to be despised. Nowadays there are so many splendid blooming things in garden and conservatory that we are apt to pass by the beauty and kindness of the plants that bloom about us in freedom and abundance. The yellow dandelion comes unasked in the grass on the wayside, and the daisies spring unbidden far across the field. The wild places in the woods deck themselves in color where no skillful hand has sown the seed or nurtured any plants with care.

What we must like about them is that they come so generously, of their own sweet will. They have not waited for any narrow garden plot to give them place, or any thoughtful hand to prepare the way. They are not helpless and dependent, falling when the water pot is forgotten. They are strong and self-reliant. Then they give themselves so abundantly to rich and poor alike, and seem to wish to bless and beautify the world, though they be themselves neglected and trampled upon. If there is humility in the common flowers, there is also the most patient and persistent service, and then the most willing sacrifice for all the world.

One may readily find the lessons of good in common things. Common tasks and toils are not without their compensations. Common days well spent make the years of a good and happy life. Words of cheer by the wayside are the things which express the character within, and which make the lives of others less irksome and unhappy. The deeds of every day which are not an artificial and hot-house production and are not gold for money are by far the most valuable to the world. Where generosity and kindness and love are made the common flowers of each day's life, there is happiness within and blessing without.

We have the best authority for saying we must call nothing in all humanity common or unclean. Our eyes are always seeing differences among men, and our judgments drawing lines of distinction. But there was One who walked among the flowers of Palestine, and said the common lily was to him more gorgeously arrayed than Solomon, and in the human soul of publican and sinner saw a child of God and an heir of heaven. How he loved and sought the common people of his land! The first movements of the weakest faith in the heart of any poor child of sin, however blackened and stained, to us he commanded, "Go ye into all the world, and preach the Gospel to every creature."

When the little one takes his first glimpse of the world, he is in, it is a minute of keenest joy.

Father is proud, mother is fond, brother is eager, sisters are tender, nurse is devoted; the whole human world is kind.

There is another, an under, world with enemies in it.
